Agricultural Economics Research Unit
Lincoln College
THE AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS RESEARCH UNIT
Lincoln College, Canterbury, N.Z.

The Unit was established in 1962 at Lincoln College, University of Canterbury. Its major sources of funding have been annual grants from the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research and the College. These grants have been supplemented by others from commercial and other organizations for specific research projects within New Zealand and overseas.

The Unit has on hand a programme of research in the fields of agricultural economics and management, including production, marketing and policy, resource economics, and the economics of location and transportation. The results of these research studies are published as Research Reports as projects are completed. In addition, technical papers, discussion papers and reprints of papers published or delivered elsewhere are available on request. For list of previous publications see inside back cover.

The Unit and the Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing and the Department of Farm Management and Rural Valuation maintain a close working relationship in research and associated matters. The combined academic staff of the Departments is around 25.

The Unit also sponsors periodic conferences and seminars on appropriate topics, sometimes in conjunction with other organizations.

The overall policy of the Unit is set by a Policy Committee consisting of the Director, Deputy Director and appropriate Professors.

INDEX OF AUTHORS 70
INTRODUCTION

The publication of this bibliography is intended to bring together under one cover a list of references on particular areas concerning goats. The list is not exhaustive, but it is considered that those people with a particular interest in special areas of the goat industry may find the references a suitable starting point for further investigation of the specific topic. Many of the publications listed also include further references on goats within specialised fields and it is anticipated that the indications of general directions for reading material contained herein can be consolidated through use of the more specialised references so obtained.

The bibliography has been set out in sections to assist users in locating references suitable for the particular field of interest. As many of the references cited are general in application, these references have been repeated within relevant sections where they provide information on more than one area.

Although some sections are much larger than others, it is hoped that this reflects the variability of the degree of interest and research undertaken in particular areas rather than bias in assembly of the bibliography.

The publication of this document is part of the Agricultural Economics Research Unit contribution to assisting in the search for information on the goat (in conjunction with our Background Paper on Goats: Discussion Paper No. 42 and our forthcoming publication of the Proceedings of the Goat Industry Workshop held at Lincoln College, July 3/4 1979). It is hoped that through these publications a better understanding of the Goat Industry can be developed and further interest in research into the problems facing the industry can be stimulated.
