Emerging researchers and ORCID: Connecting research and researchers

Poster presentation at Postgraduate Research Week, August 5-10, 2019

Invest in your future by developing your career and research identity using the internationally recognised ORCID ID.

Avoid diluting your research impact by establishing a single trusted source of personal profile data that can be repurposed across relevant technologies ensuring consistency and expediency.

Advance your career by connecting with peers, join active and progressive networks, and receive the benefits of membership to the global research community.
